Our 'Frisco Letter.

SAN FRANCISCO, March, 1, '92.
EDITOR MORNING APPEAL:—I don't know if I have exhausted your interest in long lists of Nevada people who sojourn here but I do know that I have worn out my own patience and likewise most of the list.

The absorbing attraction last week was the International Bicycle Contest at the Mechanic's Pavilion. It was essentially the world against America and the excitement was the more intense when Ashinger, the American came in ahead. The contestants included such names as Wood, the plucky Englishman, Prince, Robb, Howell, Lamb, Stage, the bonny Scott, and O'Flanagan, the wheeler from the Emerald Isle and their champion. Poor O'Flanagan wasn't in it. He had some sort of a row with a countryman who endeavored to erect an edifice on or about his eye and wasn't "at" himself. It was all he could do to finish the 600 miles necessary to get his division of the receipts. Robb and Lamb rode exceedingly well, the former being but 3 laps behind the leaders, and the latter within a mile of them a half hour before the close when they dropped out, having both beaten the world's record, held by Knapp (857 miles). Howell the big English champion was not in good time and obliged to rest often and once discarded his machine for a safety to rest his tired body.

The floor for the last three quarters of an hour was given up to Wood and Ashinger as it was hopeless for the others to continue. Wood was weary and showed the strain that he had been held to very plainly. Ashinger seemed fresh and confident and stuck to his position like a leech. At the beginning of the last fifteen minutes the excitement had grown to such a pitch that people could hardly restrain themselves. Ashinger now took the lead with a pretty spurt and set such a rapid, steady pace that Wood never got ahead again. The crowd was standing by this time and the trainers rushed eagerly around coaching and encouraging the riders. It was a swift procession up to the final 5 minutes and then it became a red hot race. Ashinger never rode better in his life and Wood fairly outdid himself. They spun the laps off at a tremendous rate amid the wildest cheering and deafening shouts which increased steadily with every round till when with a superhuman effort both riders bent to the very last lap and Ashinger with the stars and stripes flying triumphantly, dashed over the line, winner by two feet with the unprecedented record of 873 miles and five laps (over a half mile). The multitude could not be restrained any longer and filled the track in an instant. Wood could scarcely stand up when he dismounted, and had to be borne out. Ashinger quietly escaped to his room and the great 6 day's race was over.

The riders departed from 'Frisco next day as they are billed for a 6 day's run in New York very shortly. M.

Sunday was lively in Wabusba. The arrival of a new schoolmarm who had been engaged to take the place of the old teacher, attracted a lot of cowboys, buccaroos and ranchers from the surrounding farms to the station. Towards evening the cowboys finding things becoming monotonous, picked out a number on one of the C. & C. box cars and began to fire at it. The number is still there, but the car looks as if it had been through the late war.
